

The primary objective of this project is to develop an automated system for detecting duplicated content within academic documents. By utilizing Natural Language Processing and machine learning algorithms, the software can identify similarities that traditional keyword-based searches often miss. The system processes PDF files, extracts the raw text, and compares the semantic meaning against a local database of reference materials to ensure academic integrity.